

Pet Health Insurance

Pets, just like people, face medical problems, whether from an accident, nutritional issues, disease or an inherited condition. There is no telling when trouble may strike, leaving you with unexpected and sometimes hefty expenses.

For the sake of your finances and peace of mind, find the right plan for you and your pet. Make sure to know the terms and pay all of the premiums on time. Pet insurance can be customizable and very affordable these days. We highly recommend you consider it for your furry family member. Remember, it's necessary to be insured before there is a problem.

Finding the Best Coverage

With the right insurance coverage, you can plan to have the financial resources necessary to provide the right treatment at the right time, without having to postpone or even forego costly procedures that can restore your pet's health. Reputable insurers offer their customers the right range of coverage options including wellness and preventative medicine, treatment of inherited conditions, medications, etc. They offer a range of premiums and deductibles that can be customized. The key to getting the right coverage is to match your pet's needs with the options offered in specific plans that are still within your budget. The first step is to do some research about pet insurance options. Make a list of various plans, including what they cover, premiums and deductibles; Figo.com has a great breakdown of all company plans <https://figopetinsurance.com/pet-insurance-comparison>

Some Questions to ask yourself before choosing a policy

Are there exclusions or limitations by breed?

Are hereditary and congenital conditions covered? If so, are there limits on coverage?

Is dental coverage included? Does it include disease? Does it include accidents?

Are all prescription drugs, supplements and nutraceuticals covered? How about prescription food?

Is there coverage for physical rehabilitation or alternative therapies, if needed? Limitations?

Is wellness care (vaccines and preventatives) offered?

Is there an unlimited coverage option?

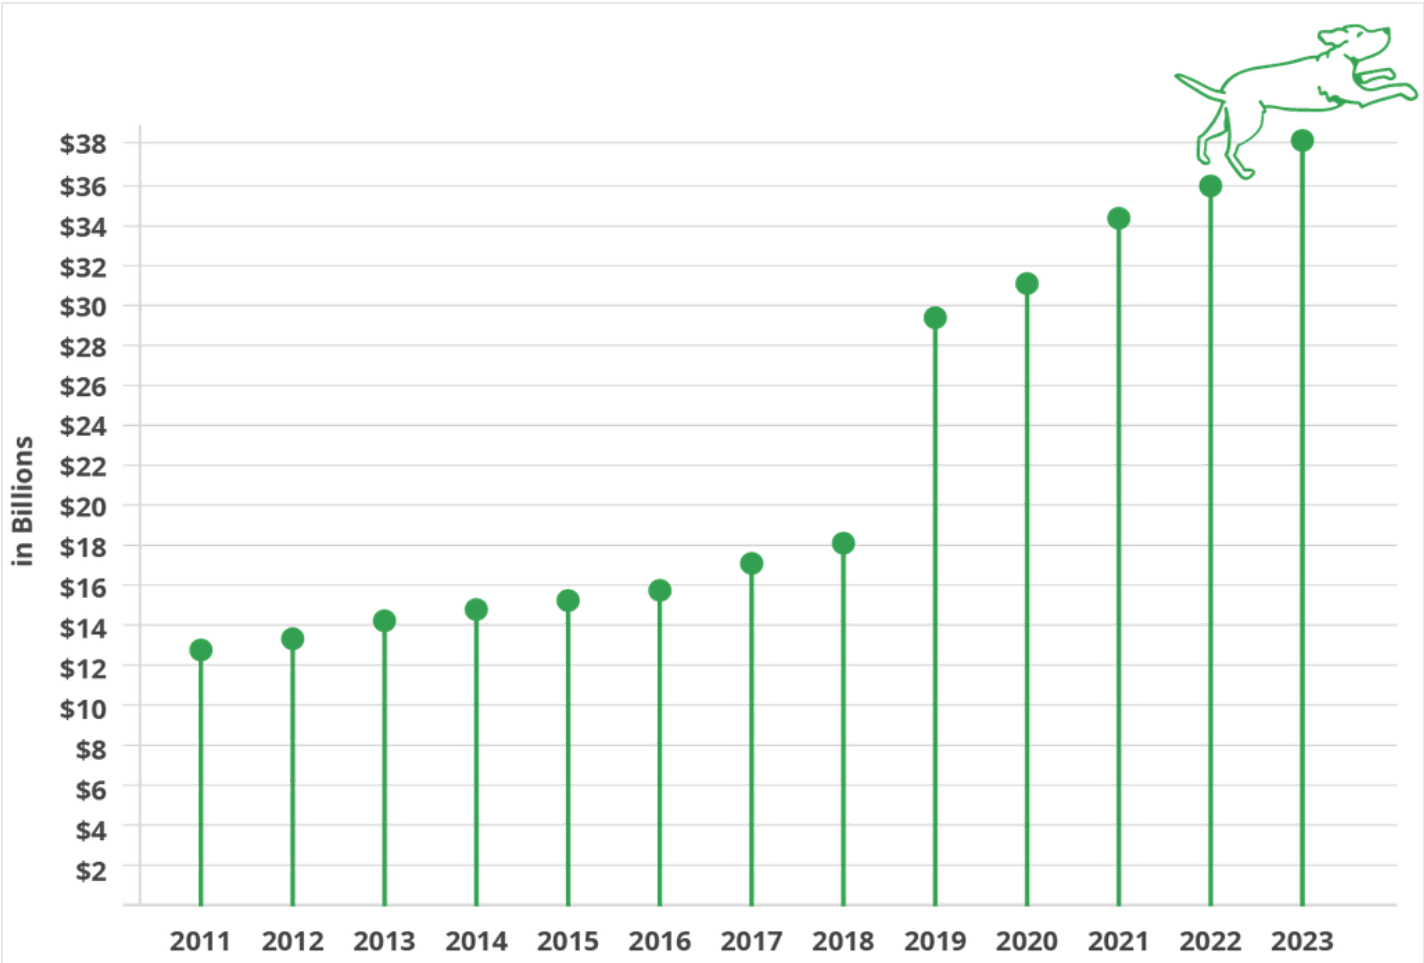

Does the provider offer pre-approval to ensure coverage?

What are the waiting periods when you enroll? Are they longer for orthopedic, hereditary or congenital conditions?
